

Dear Birthmother,

Thank you so much for choosing life and adoption for your baby. We recognize that this is a very difficult time for you and want you to know we admire your courage and the love you are showing your baby. We have been praying for you and your baby even though we don't even know you yet.

We have been married for a little more than 7 years. We met at church when our pastor introduced us about 2 years before we were married.

We have one little boy, Benjamin, who is 4 years old. He brings so much joy into our lives every day. Being parents is the most amazing experience ever! We believe that children truly are a blessing from God, no matter whether He gives them to us through birth or adoption. We feel that we are meant to adopt because we still have such a strong desire for another child even though we know we are unable to conceive another baby. And Ben's constant praying for a baby brother or sister is just more affirmation for our hearts. He can hardly wait to be a big brother!

Christy is blessed to be a stay at home mommy and spend her days playing with and teaching Ben. I really can't imagine anything better. It's absolutely the best job I've ever had. I also enjoy cooking and baking for my family, doing crafts, reading, and watching old movies.

Brian is such a kind and godly man, truly a wonderful husband and father. He makes a point to spend special time with Ben every single day. It is very important to him that his children will have memories of playing with Daddy and knowing he will always be there for them, no matter what. He's never too busy to stop and play or read stories or even just talk about the day's events. He's sacrificed many hours of sleep to catch up on work after bedtime so that he could spend evenings with the family.

Finally, all of our extended family is excited about our decision to adopt. The grandparents, aunts, and uncles can hardly wait for another baby to love and spoil. And the cousins are beyond excited about having another friend and playmate. Since we all live near each other we get to enjoy lots of time together.

Thank you again for your brave and honorable decision and for taking the time to read this letter. We think of you and pray for God's strength and protection for you every day.

Brian, Christy, and Benjamin
