

We believe that the words thank you do not fully express the gratitude that we feel in this moment. We don't know that any words we could put together could tell you exactly how greatly we think of you. You are selfless, humble, brave, and most of all courageous. Thank you so much for following God's plan and purpose for your life and for your baby's life.

Amber has always felt that the Lord has placed adoption on her heart from a very young age. In April of 2017 we found out that we would not be able to have biological children, so to us that was God's affirmation of what He had put on Amber's heart so long ago. We are so excited about this journey that God has put us on. We can't wait to share our story with whoever God chooses our baby to be. Because we feel that the picture of adoption is direct reflection of The Gospel and how God has adopted us into His family and gives us His unconditional love. We are excited to share that unconditional love with our child.

We met in February of 2010. Kenny joined a small group that Amber was leading. A year later we began leading that small group together and became best friends. In December of 2012 we began dating, we were engaged in July of 2013 and later married in November of the same year. We are absolutely the best of friends. Our favorite thing is to just be together. We love going to the movies, traveling, going to college football games and basketball games, being with family or just simply hanging out at home. We are both very active in our church and still lead a small group together.

Kenny is going to be an amazing Dad. He is fun, funny, sarcastic, loving, caring, encouraging and hard working. Kenny works extremely hard to provide for us and to lead us as God is leading him. He is a civil engineer and has been one for the last 12 years. I couldn't imagine any part of my life without him and I cannot wait to see him be a dad and love and lead our child.

Amber was born to be a Mom. She is the most beautiful, smart, amazing, caring, selfless person I know. She is my biggest cheerleader, and makes me feel like I can accomplish anything in the world. She is the kid's director at the church we attend, and has been working in kid's ministry for the past 8 years. I am so excited to see her become a mother and love our child as God loves us.

From the bottom of our hearts thank you for taking the time to read this letter and for considering us. We are praying for you in a big way no matter what your final decision is. We know for certain that God will lead you and guide you, to God be the Glory.
